Lamine Pearlheart, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****TO LIFE FROM THE SHADOWS: Conversations with the light contains a collection of personal verses and aphorisms dealing with multiple issues; it covers love, morals, politics, religion, spirituality, government, warfare, crime, the soul, and an array of other human experiences. The book challenges the reader to look beyond the masses and towards that spark of individuality that is in his/her inner being; L. Pearlheart chose to refer to it as the light. The book contains words of wisdom to live by such as Love dies if it has no more ground to conquer and suffocates if it has too many spaces - On Love Hate, just like love, is a propulsion force; it is also, to the unwise, a defining matter - On Hate Those who want to sink will surely find wreckage! - On Human Stupidity It is easier for people to accept slavery if they realize that they actually have paid for it. - On Slavery He who says the truth is not necessarily truthful - On Honesty The role of the parents is not to become the child, but to provide guidance to it, to walk it through the same abyss the parents walked through but with the help of a light called parental guidance. - On Parenting Money is good weapon against the scum and is of no consequence to the noble mind - On Money EXCERPTS FROM A POEM TITLED TWO LOVERS They were no lovers of things which make a sublime creature a pity No star royal rose from the heavens the day they met No banners were unfolded to greet them Flowers and roses, gifts to each other, they carted hidden in time They were not rich...
