Have you ever had one of those days dealing with a non-stop parade of dummies? Whether it is the bank, the grocery store, or even going online, it seems the world is filled with idiots. But what can we do about it? Humor author Karl Wiebe has the answer: a book filled with essays complaining about all aspects of life. Why is the self-checkout so frustrating? Are you secretly cheering for the bull during the rodeo? Why does that guy with 14 items get to use the express checkout, when the sign clearly says 12? Is there a medical reason why public washrooms are so disgusting... so disgusting in fact that even reading an essay about it will stop you from eating your chocolate bar? Eww. Hey, you imagined it. Karl Wiebe's humorous look at life with other people will be a quiet comfort on those days when you need reassurance. You are not alone. You are not the only sane person left, although sometimes you may feel like it. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
